Lee County Community Foundation announces new advisory board member

For immediate release -- 6/1/16

The Lee County Community Foundation announces Jasmine Lucas as a new advisory board member, according to Oliver Crawley, board president.

Lucas is a Sanford resident and attorney at Wilson and Reives, PLLC. She received her J.D. from the Norman Adrian Wiggins School of Law at Campbell University and graduated cum laude from the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. She was treasurer of the Black Law Student Association and received an Order of Old Kivett Award.

“We are thrilled to have Jasmine join the board,” Crawley said. “We are excited to have her energy and insight benefiting our work in the community.”

Established in 1997, the Lee County Community Foundation is an affiliate of the North Carolina Community Foundation (NCCF). In 2016, the board will be awarding over $4500 in local community grants. For further information, contact NCCF Regional Director Dawn Neighbors at dneighbors@nccommunityfoundation.org or (910) 292-4437 or visit the NCCF website at nccommunityfoundation.org.

About the North Carolina Community Foundation

The NCCF is the single statewide community foundation serving North Carolina and has made $101 million in grants since its inception in 1988. With more than $237 million in assets, NCCF sustains 1,200 endowments established to provide long-term support of a broad range of community needs, nonprofit organizations, institutions and scholarships. The NCCF partners with 60 affiliate foundations to provide local resource allocation and community assistance in 67 counties across the state. An important component of NCCF's mission is to ensure that rural philanthropy has a voice at local, regional and national levels.
