a program of

NORTH CAROLINA COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

Cary Women's Giving Network accepting grant applications

For immediate release -- 2/27/17

The board of advisors of the Cary Women's Giving Network is currently accepting grant applications for projects, according to Sheila Ogle, board president.

Funds are available for nonprofit organizations that serve the charitable needs of women and children in Cary. Applications are available online beginning March 3. Visit nccommunityfoundation.org for information about applying. The deadline for submitting applications is noon April 4.

The Cary Women's Giving Network is group of local women who have organized to support local needs in Cary through a giving circle that supports a competitive grants process. Formed in 2011 as a program of the North Carolina Community Foundation, the Cary Women's Giving Network provides grants to nonprofits serving Cary under the direction of its full membership.

About the North Carolina Community Foundation

The NCCF is the single statewide community foundation serving North Carolina and has made $116 million in grants since its inception in 1988. With more than $222 million in assets, NCCF sustains 1,200 endowments established to provide long-term support of a broad range of community needs, nonprofit organizations, institutions and scholarships. The NCCF partners with a network of affiliate foundations to provide local resource allocation and community assistance across the state. An important component of NCCF's mission is to ensure that rural philanthropy has a voice at local, regional and national levels.
