

Martin joins NC Community Foundation as regional director in northwestern region

For immediate release -- 4/12/16

Colby Martin has joined the North Carolina Community Foundation as a regional director for the northwestern region, according to Sally Migliore, director of community leadership.

Martin has management responsibilities for NCCF's affiliate foundations in Alleghany, Ashe, Avery, Alexander, Caldwell, Catawba, Watauga, Wilkes and Yadkin counties. He develops and supports the boards' work to grow philanthropy, build endowments and administer local grantmaking in their counties. NCCF has eight regional directors who oversee affiliate activities in regions that directly serve 67 counties in the state.

Martin comes to NCCF with extensive experience in grants, compliance and nonprofit management. He served on a variety of nonprofit boards and local government task forces doing work in health, the arts and economic development. He earned his master in business (MBA) at Appalachian State University where he also attended for undergraduate studies.

"We are delighted to have someone with Colby's nonprofit management experience join the NCCF team," said Migliore.

About the North Carolina Community Foundation

The NCCF is the single statewide community foundation serving North Carolina and has made $101 million in grants since its inception in 1988. With more than $237 million in assets, NCCF sustains 1,200 endowments established to provide long-term support of a broad range of community needs, nonprofit organizations, institutions and scholarships. The NCCF partners with 60 affiliate foundations to provide local resource allocation and community assistance in 67 counties across the state. An important component of NCCF's mission is to ensure that rural philanthropy has a voice at local, regional and national levels.

For more information, visit nccommunityfoundation.org, like us on Facebook and follow us on LinkedIn and Twitter @NCCF.

News media contact

Noel McLaughlin, NCCF Marketing & Communications Director
919-256-6901, nmclaughlin@nccommunityfoundation.org