

Medrith Nuttle

Medrith Nuttle is a well-known contemporary Impressionist painter. She paints both en plein air (that's French for "outside") and in the studio. She will paint anything that will hold still and some things that won't. She has never wanted to be anything but an artist, so she went to art school instead of regular college. She has been painting for at least 50 years, so you would think she knows what she's doing.

Medrith has had paintings accepted in local, regional, national, and international competitions. Her work has won prizes ranging from Honorable Mention to Best in Show, and has been purchased for numerous private and corporate collections.

Medrith still loves her job after all these years. She hopes you enjoy seeing her art as much as she enjoys creating it.
