

CARY WOMEN'S GIVING NETWORK

a program of

NORTH CAROLINA COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

Community grants available from the Cary Women's Giving Network

The members of the Cary Women's Giving Network are currently accepting grant applications from area nonprofits that serve women, children and families in the local community.

Funds are available for nonprofit organizations that serve women, children and families in the Cary community. Applications are available online beginning March 8. Visit nccommunityfoundation.org for information about applying. The deadline for applications is noon April 9.

“This is a great opportunity for local nonprofits to expand their impact in our community,” said Sheila Ogle, president. “We are excited to partner with nonprofit leaders to create lasting change in the community.”

About the Cary Women's Giving Network

A program of the North Carolina Community Foundation, the Cary Women's Giving Network is a giving circle that leverages the power of collective giving through a local network that supports the community in a purposeful way. The Network supports charitable organizations serving women, children and families in the Cary community. The Giving Network is designed to maximize women's leadership in philanthropy by engaging and educating its membership and increasing charitable contributions.

About the North Carolina Community Foundation

The NCCF is the single statewide community foundation serving North Carolina and has administered more than $145 million in grants since its inception in 1988. With more than $270 million in assets, NCCF sustains 1,300 endowments established to provide long-term support of a broad range of community needs, nonprofit organizations, institutions and scholarships. The NCCF partners with a network of affiliate foundations to provide local resource allocation and community assistance across the state. An important component of NCCF's mission is to ensure that rural philanthropy has a voice at local, regional and national levels. For more information, visit nccommunityfoundation.org.
