Advanced Manufacturing, Software/IT, Other: Digital Mfg, E-Commerce, 3D Printing	Expanding	0	$1,500,000	10/20/2021

Notes

The Cary Chamber of Commerce announced today that Protolabs, an established Cary-Resident, has decided to expand their footprint here in Cary. Capital Associates, a full-service real estate company headquartered in The Triangle, will be breaking ground in the next few weeks on a 120,000 square foot industrial building located on a 20-acre parcel on Pleasant Grove Church Road. The building will be occupied by Protolabs, a leading provider of digital manufacturing services. The e-commerce-based company offers injection molding, CNC machining, 3D printing, and sheet metal fabrication to product developers, engineers, and supply chain teams across the globe. This facility will serve as an expansion of Protolabs' 3D printing space in the Raleigh area, joining its existing facility located across Pleasant Grove Church Road. The new facility will allow the manufacturer to expand its current metal 3D printing capacity. The location will be the seventh U.S. manufacturing facility for the digital manufacturer, which also has facilities in Nashua, N.H., and the greater Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

Notes

A Canadian-founded company with a growing Raleigh presence has completed its fourth acquisition this year, and its sixth in the last 15 months. Montreal-based Intelrad Medical Systems, a medical image management company, announced Oct. 14 that it had acquired Ambra Health, a cloud-based medical image management suite. This follows the company's acquisition of Triangle-based Heart Imaging Technologies in July. Amid this flurry of activity, the company is expanding its workforce in the Triangle, which will serve as its U.S. headquarters moving forward, CEO Mike Lipps said. The company has hired 87 people in the Raleigh-area over the last 12 months, with 19 open positions to be filled. And the number of local employees could double over the next 12 to 18 months.

CCL Label

Industry	New/Expanding	New Jobs	Investment	Date Submitted
Advanced Manufacturing, Other: Label Manufacturing, Shared Services	Expanding	150	$33,810,000	11/17/2021

Notes

Fuquay-Varina's Town-owned business park will soon have a tenant. CCL Label Inc. has plans to construct a new manufacturing facility that will bring significant new capital investment and 150 new fulltime jobs to the community. CCL Label Inc. is proposing to purchase the entire Town-owned business park site consisting of 32.28 acres and construct a 110,000 square-foot manufacturing facility for production and office operations. Construction of the new manufacturing facility and purchasing machinery and equipment will create $29 million in new capital investment for the community. The overall project is estimated to cost $33,810,000, with construction beginning in spring 2022. The 150 jobs are expected to be created over the next five years with average wages around $70,000. The new facility would make pressure-sensitive labels and digitally and printed literature products for the pharmaceutical and health care markets. The construction of the new facility is expected to be completed by December 2023. CCL Label Inc.'s new capital investment will be supported, in part, by incentive funding approved by the Town Board of Commissioners during their Tuesday board meeting. Under the terms of the Company's incentive agreement, CCL Label Inc. can receive up to $750,000 of economic development funding assistance.

Industry	New/Expanding	New Jobs	Investment	Date Submitted
Advanced Manufacturing, Biotechnology/Pharmaceuticals, Software/IT, Other: Textiles, R&D, Biomaterials, Headquarters	New	0	$0	12/15/2021

Notes

A New York-based startup that spins seaweed into yarn is setting up shop in the Triangle. AlgiKnit plans to open an innovation hub in the Raleigh area next year as it tries to scale up production of its eco-conscious biomaterial. The space will house the company's manufacturing and R&D teams as it builds on its last four years of refining its technology. This move to the Triangle, which it chose for the area's history in textiles and access to the research community, marks a new stage for the company. This will allow the company to increase the scale at which it can produce and open up opportunities to partner with brands. The company has some pilot projects lined up for next year that it can't yet share the details on. This includes hiring on both the research and manufacturing sides of the business. Gosiewski, the company's co-founder and chief operating officer, will oversee the facility.

Science 37, Inc. [NASDAQ: SNCE], the Agile Clinical Trial Operating System, will relocate its corporate headquarters from California to North Carolina's Research Triangle region and create 250 jobs over five years in Wake County, Governor Roy Cooper announced today. The company will invest nearly $1.5 million to establish operations in the Town of Morrisville. Science 37's mission is to enable universal access to clinical research—making it easier for patients and providers to participate from anywhere. As a pioneer of decentralized clinical trials, the Science 37 Clinical Trial Operating System (OS) supports today's more agile clinical research designs with its full stack, end-to-end technology platform and specialized networks of patient communities, telemedicine investigators, mobile nurses, remote coordinators and connected devices. Science 37's project in Wake County will transition the company's headquarters from Culver City, California and will create opportunities for administrative, legal, HR, and IT personnel, among other headquarters' functions. While salaries will vary based on job roles, the average wage for all the new jobs will be $114,400, which is above the Wake County average of $68,317. The total payroll impact from this project on the region is expected to reach more than $28 million, each and every year.

Notes

Marrone Bio Innovations, Inc. (NASDAQ: MBII), an international leader in sustainable bioprotection and plant health solutions, today announced it has relocated its corporate headquarters from Davis, California, to Raleigh, North Carolina, to support the company’s growing presence in markets outside the United States. The move predominantly affects corporate executive positions. Davis will continue to be the hub for the company’s research and development operations, along with a number of support functions (<https://marronebio.com/marrone-bio-relocates-corporate-headquarters-to-raleigh-north-carolina/>)

A spokesperson for the company said Marrone did not have a presence in the Triangle before. Its new office will be at 7780 Brier Creek Parkway in Raleigh. Keyser said the firm’s research and development teams will continue to be based in Davis, but that the company anticipates hiring more employees in the Triangle going forward. “We will have positions opening in the coming months and years,” she said. Software/IT	Expanding	50	$0	01/11/2022

As Triangle employers battle to fill open tech positions, a mega company is stepping up its hiring game in the region. E-commerce giant Amazon (Nasdaq: AMZN) has put out dozens of postings for “on-site” developer jobs in the region. About 50 open positions have been listed in the past two weeks alone for Raleigh and Durham, a review of job postings shows. They include cloud infrastructure architects and database consultants in Durham and customer solutions managers in Raleigh. Amazon has several locations in the region – including a massive distribution warehouse operation in Garner. But much of its on-site presence – at least so far – has been logistics-related. One of Amazon’s new job postings says the company is “in [the] process of locating office space in the area of North Carolina, Research Triangle Park.”

Sterling Pharma Solutions, a global contract development and manufacturing organization, began a $2.1 million expansion project to increase chemical and analytical capabilities at its facility in Cary, NC. The project includes the construction of five new labs: two will be dedicated to R&D; a scale-up chemical synthesis lab; as well as Quality Control and analytical services labs. All work is due to be completed by the end of 2022, and will allow the recruitment of up to 20 additional scientists at the facility. Sterling's 27,000 sq.-ft. facility in Cary opened in 1994 and employs 50 people. It provides services to support API development and manufacturing product from preclinical through to Phase 2, including cGMP manufacturing, and capabilities to handle DEA schedule 1-5 controlled substances.

Notes

Before last summer, the San Francisco tech company SingleStore didn't have an office in the Triangle. A half a year later, its workplace in Raleigh's Warehouse District is already bursting at the seams. The company, which makes database management software, has hired 38 people at its Raleigh office in the past year, and plans to hire another 30 to 50 in the next year. Already, it is on the hunt for additional space downtown to house those future employees. Raleigh is playing an important role in SingleStore's expansion plans, which have been boosted by more than $300 million in funding from investors, including an $80 million injection last fall.

Notes

French chemical firm Arkema is expanding its Cary operation by opening a new research and development lab alongside its existing testing facility. Financial details were not released, but Arkema called it a "significant investment" when announcing the plan, though it remains to be seen how those dollars could translate to jobs. Arkema's labs in Cary – where its coating resins business is headquartered – are largely focused on liquid coatings. But by expanding the local capability with powder, the goal is to take advantage of one of the fastest-growing segments the firm is chasing, said Michael Iwaniw, global business manager of powder resins. Amber Goodyear, global market manager for powder resins at Arkema, said it is too soon to say whether the Cary expansion will mean more jobs. The latest head count on its website says the firm employs about 103 people locally, above the 80-person headcount Triangle Business Journal reported in 2018. The plan is to construct a new powder coating resins lab at its existing Cary operation, located off Gregson Drive between Highway 64 and U.S. 1. If all goes as expected, the new facility will start operations by the end of the third quarter of this year.

An acclaimed chef and a Raleigh restaurant group are in the final stretch of preparation before opening a new concept in Cary. Chef Katsuji Tanabe and LM Restaurants are behind A'Verde Cocina and Tequila Library. The restaurant is located in the Crossroads Plaza area of Cary at 2300 Walnut St. Guests can expect to see menu items influenced by Tanabe's Mexican and Japanese ethnic backgrounds. But that doesn't mean A'Verde will be a fusion restaurant. The interior of A'Verde is 5,500 square feet with more space on the outside patio. Triangle Business Journal previously reported that total project costs were expected to be under $500,000. The end amount will likely be just above $500,000, said Amber Moshakos, president of LM Restaurants. The restaurant will hopefully employ 80 people, Tanabe said. The menu's price point falls between $5 and $29.

A German packaging company is opening a facility in Knightdale to be closer to the Triangle's booming pharma industry. The company, called Optima, is made up of four business units, one of which focuses on the pharma industry and offers machine solutions for packaging products, like filling liquid medications into vials and syringes. The company already has sales and service personnel in North Carolina, but last year decided to build a physical location to be closer to its customers in the Triangle. The service hub the company is opening in Knightdale sometime in the middle of this year will be its second physical location in the U.S. Opening a facility near Raleigh will provide a hub for service and support personnel and a place where the company can meet with customers. With the opening of the facility, the company also plans to increase its number of employees in the Triangle and throughout the U.S. In its statement, the company said it has more than 50 sales and service employees who provide on-site support to pharmaceutical customers in the U.S.

Charlotte-headquartered Flexential will build a new 18 megawatt (MW) facility in Raleigh and also announced an additional $150 million financing plan. The funds would be invested into the company’s sustainable data center projects, like the planned facility in Raleigh. The capital raise follows the company’s $2.1 billion funding through asset-backed securities that included $1.6 billion in “green ABS notes” announced in December 2021. The company chose Raleigh for its 120,000 square foot data center due to the Research Triangle’s “increasing importance as an innovation zone,” according to a statement released on Wednesday by the company. With access to a skilled workforce, the company expects the facility to be operational on an initial phase by the third quarter of 2023. The company did not share any hiring targets for the facility. The company currently has six open roles that could be based in Raleigh, according to its careers webpage. The company anticipates that its newly launched FlexAnywhere™ platform will expand to provide as much as 220 megawatts and more than three million square feet of capacity by the end of 2022, according to a statement. Flexential was formerly known as Peak 10, and changed its name in 2018. The company was founded in 2000, and by 2003 had operations in four cities in the southeast.

"A Wake County brewpub is ready to expand with a new concept. Norse Brewing Company carved a niche in the Wake Forest market with its Nordic-themed décor and craft beer offerings when it opened in December 2019 at 203 N. Brooks St. Now, with much of the headwinds caused by the Covid-19 pandemic stabilized, he's ready to take the next step. Jorgensen and his team have purchased a building in downtown Zebulon to create the brand's first longhouse. Located at 120 N. Arendell Ave., the 1920s-era building will soon become Norse Brewing Company Longhouse. The 2-story building was purchased by Jorgensen's Hidden Jewel Ventures entity at the end of May for just under $300,000. The space totals around 2,600 square feet. Jorgensen is working with local construction company Bobbitt to do a total upfitting of the old building and estimates the entire project will cost $1.8 million. The longhouse, expected to have around 20 workers, will have a kitchen on site but will receive daily deliveries from the main kitchen in Wake Forest for most of its food items.
